

Accessibility Compliance Support Services for Digital Learning

For Edge and our members, the needs of each institutions' community come first. To that end, Edge provides Accessibility Compliance Support Services for Digital Learning, to help our members ensure that the needs of differently abled members of their community are met on the web and in online or digitally-enabled learning environments. These services also aim to assist institutions in preparing for or developing remediation plans to respond to Office of Civil Rights (OCR) compliance audits.

EDGE ACCESSIBILITY COMPLIANCE SUPPORT SERVICES FOR DIGITAL LEARNING INCLUDE:

DIGITAL ACCESSIBILITY READINESS ASSESSMENT

Edge accessibility experts will provide an expert 3rd party review of your current compliance with digital accessibility standards. The readiness assessments include:

One time scan of your institution's digital properties on the web for accessibility compliance, including Section 508 Digital Accessibility standards. This can be a full site scan or a defined subset of pages.

An instructional design review of a random selection of online and digitally-enabled courses for accessibility compliance.

A detailed report on digital accessibility findings, including immediate suggestions for improvement and a long-term remediation roadmap.

ACCESSIBILITY SUPPORT SERVICES

Edge accessibility experts can provide your institution with direct support service to proactively improve accessibility and / or rapidly remediate your web and digital environments to meet accessibility standards. Services include:

Professional Development Training for Accessibility. Edge experts can create custom accessibility trainings for content or website owners, faculty, and more, to proactively build the capacity to support accessibility efforts internally at your institution.

Accessibility Policy, Procedure, and Governance Development. Edge's Chief Digital Learning Officer can work with your institution to create a model of accessibility management to strengthen the policies, procedures, and governance in place to proactively ensure that the needs of differently abled members of your institutional community are met.
